

PROJECT RESILIENCE

ASIAN & ASIAN AMERICAN STUDIES
CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY LONG BEACH

INTERNSHIP SCHOLARSHIP

- Project Resilience provides scholarships to students completing an internship. Qualified students will receive a $2000 scholarship. Review the program qualifications and application information below

QUALIFICATIONS

- Current undergraduate student enrolled in CSULB
- First-generation college student, low-income, and/or identifying as Asian American and/or Pacific Islander.
- Student is completing an unpaid internship for one semester (fall, spring, or summer)
- Student is enrolled in an internship course (preferred not required)
- Passionate about working with organizations to make a positive change
- Desire to learn new skills and explore career options

PRIORITY DEADLINE:
OCTOBER 15, 2023

Application Link:

https://csulb.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_cYGI6LZ72utTbAa

Applications will remain open until all scholarships are awarded.

First priority will be given to those students who submit an application by October 15, 2023

Questions? Contact Dr. Varisa Patraporn at varisa.patraporn@csulb.edu

Please note that should you be awarded, these funds will be coordinated with other financial aid and scholarships you are receiving. It may be helpful to meet with a Financial Aid counselor to better understand your aid package and what may occur if you received additional funding.*

Visit www.csulb.edu/ContactFAS for ways to connect with Financial Aid & Scholarships

