Once again, CSULB’s EGSA is proud to host Re/Inventions, the Department of English Interdisciplinary Graduate Student Conference, with visiting students from our local CSUs, out-of-state and independent scholars, a PhD candidate from Germany, and 16 of our own CSULB colleagues.

From fairy tales to Freud, this “Hysteria” themed conference offers something for every academic! Featuring panels on post-humanism, gender and sexuality, trauma and the body, feminist and patriarchal rhetoric, medieval & Renaissance literature, a creative piece, and everyone’s favorite Walking Dead zombies, this year’s conference promises an intersection between serious scholarship and serious fun!

Now in its second year, Re/Inventions is organized by students for students. It is a space where emerging voices can showcase their scholarly interests, receive feedback, and open discussions between disciplines in the humanities. Please come out to support your CSULB colleagues as they raise “hysterically” provocative questions, concerns, and insights. You’ll be deliriously glad you did!
