

Claire Cahill is an associate with a litigation law firm in Washington D.C. She graduated from Georgetown University Law Center summa cum laude in 2019 and spent the following three years clerking on the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit, and U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. While attending Georgetown Law, Claire was the Senior Online Editor for the Georgetown Law Journal and a member of the Barristers' Council Moot Court team. She received a B.A. in Government from Patrick Henry College, where she also competed in moot court. Claire was an ACMA regional champion and reached the national ACMA tournament three times, finishing as a national semi-finalist and national runner-up in her final two years. Next year, she will be clerking with Justice Brett M. Kavanaugh on the U.S. Supreme Court.