José Yenque presents Academy Award Winning Film “Wednesday Afternoon”

José Yenque, recipient of the 2010 HOLA Ilka Humanitarian Award—given to performers who contribute to society through humanitarian efforts—is an actor with more than ten years of experience in the film, theater and television industry. He has been on shows such as Law and Order: SVU, Lost and appeared opposite Benicio del Toro in Steven Soderberg’s acclaimed film Traffic (2000). José will visit CSULB to screen his Academy Award winning short film (Student Category) “Wednesday Afternoon” (2004). A bilingual Q/A session will follow. José is a native of New York now based in Los Angeles.

“Wednesday Afternoon” is based on the short story “Lazos de familia” by Edmundo Paz Soldán, which deals with the difficult relationship between a father and his son.
